Work Experience (brief summary):

After my early career in retail sales and management I switched to human resources upon completion of my BS in HRM. I was a generalist manager who was drawn into training & development, often putting me at odds with my bosses, who preferred that I maintain the status quo! I continued to home in on development and OD, looking for ways to implement OD initiatives at the departmental and business unit level.

Why Omaha ODN is important to me:

From my first meeting about 10 years ago until now, Omaha OD Network has been a thought-stimulating experience, and I always come away from our meetings with lots of new ideas!

Dream Job:

Really it's a combination of several jobs! Writing, consulting, teaching, and some administration mixed in.

Famous Person I'd Most Like to Meet:

Peter Drucker

Favorite Quote:

Our greatest fear should not be of failure, but of succeeding at something that doesn't really matter.
